

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A memory system having a memory controller, interface device and plurality of memory elements. The interface device is coupled to the memory controller via a first high-speed signal path. The plurality of memory elements are removably coupled to the interface device via respective second signal paths, each of the second signal paths having a lower signaling bandwidth than the first signaling path.